

Crossover cable

What is a crossover cable and where would you use it?

Selecione uma alternativa

- | | |
|----------|--|
| A | A crossover cable is a cable identified for having its sequence colors different on both ends, we can use it to connect a PC to Switch |
| B | A crossover cable is a cable identified for having its sequence colors different on both ends, we can use it to connect a PC to a router |
| C | A crossover cable is a cable identified for being green and we can use it to connect a PC to a router |
| D | A crossover cable is a cable identified for having its sequence colors the same on both ends of the cable, we can use it to connect a PC to a router |