10. T-Rex Mecha – Transformação Explosiva

Descrição visual: Um ovo metálico se rompe em um hangar industrial escuro e se transforma com impacto e barulho em um T-Rex robótico gigante, com engrenagens, pistões, olhos vermelhos e rugido metálico.

  "description": "The scene opens on a smooth, metallic silver egg resting in the center of a vast, gritty industrial hangar. Suddenly, glowing seams etch across its surface, and the egg doesn't unfold—it fractures. With a surge of energy, armored plates unlock and pull back, revealing a complex mechanical skeleton within. In a rapid, violent, and intricate sequence, components shift, rotate, and telescope outwards. Two massive legs slam down onto the concrete floor, followed by a powerful tail whipping out for balance. The main body expands upwards as a monstrous head, filled with razor-sharp metallic teeth, constructs itself piece by piece, all originating from the initial egg's mass.",

  "style": "Hyper-detailed, industrial mecha CGI. The aesthetic is inspired by 'Transformers' and 'Pacific Rim,' focusing on complex, hard-surface mechanics, intricate moving parts, and a sense of immense weight and power.",

  "camera": "A single, dynamic continuous shot. Starts as a close-up on the egg, then pulls back and orbits the transformation, dipping low to the ground as the legs impact and craning up to reveal the final, massive scale of the fully formed T-Rex. The camera shakes slightly with the impacts.",

  "lighting": "Begins with stark, top-down industrial lighting on the egg. As the transformation begins, a glowing blue power core ignites within the chest, casting internal light through the gaps in the armor. Sparks fly from grinding metal parts. The final lighting is dominated by the T-Rex's own glowing red optical sensors.",

  "motion": "A violent, multi-layered mechanical reconfiguration. The motion is not fluid but clunky and purposeful, defined by panels sliding, parts rotating 180 degrees, and pistons firing to lock limbs into place. It's a symphony of grinding gears, hissing pneumatics, and heavy, metallic 'clunks' as each component finds its final position. The transformation should feel engineered and explosive.",

  "ending": "The fully constructed robotic T-Rex stands in a low, predatory stance. It throws its head back, and its optical sensors flare to life with a piercing red glow as it lets out a deafening, synthesized metallic roar that echoes through the hangar.",
